SIBLINGS

$$1 + X = Y$$

“The day you will understand that the outcome of your life does not come from what happened to you, but from the type of inner engineering you have, you will know your power and become your own creator.

That day, you will understand that no prophecy, no psychic reading, no miracle, and no shortcut will ever give you the life you want. Until you decide to re-invent the machinery you have on the inside, you will always have the same life. Once you embrace this truth, you will then start to truly help others transform their own inner machinery as a true light worker or love worker on earth.

That day, freedom will come to you. That day you will understand how owning your life, owning your attitude, and owning the outcome of your life without blaming anyone or something outside of yourself is the GREATEST POWER you will ever give yourself.

That day you will understand what Saint Paul meant when he said, “Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind. Only then you will be able to know and approve of the good will God has for your life. But first, let go of the pattern or the machinery of the world.”

(Inspired from Romans 12: 2)
